Question Number One: (30 points)

Read the text and do the tasks below:

Most schools claim to prepare students for the world of work, but Milton Secondary School takes the claim very seriously. Before they even join the school, future pupils get an informal interview at their primary school to discuss their hopes and preferences for the future.

The emphasis on employment continues during the first two years at Milton, and then in the third year all pupils spend a day doing work experience at a local company. Two years later, this becomes a whole week spent with a company, usually arranged by the students themselves.

Throughout their secondary education, students have professional careers advice, which costs the school over £30,000 a year. Head teacher Harriet Downs believes it's worth it, though: 'Teachers aren't trained as careers advisers,' she says, 'so we bring in professional help. It's part of a co-ordinated programme that aims to make students aware of the employment options available, and how to make the most of them. It's too late to start talking about work in their final year.'

Question Number Two: (20 points)*Read the text and do the tasks below:

It seems that there is never enough time in the day. But, since we all get the same 24 hours, why is it that some people achieve so much more with their time than others? The answer lies in good time management.

The highest achievers manage their time very well. By using the time-management techniques in this essay, you can improve your ability to work more effectively – even when time is tight and pressures are high. Good time management requires an important move in focus from activities to results: being busy isn't the same as being effective.

Spending your day doing overloaded activities often achieves less, because you're dividing your attention between so many different tasks. Good time management lets you work smarter – not harder – so you get more done in less time. So what is time management? "Time management" refers to the way that you organize and plan how long you spend on specific activities.

It may seem strange to spend precious time to learning about time management, instead of using it to get on with your work, but the benefits are great:

- Greater productivity and efficiency.
- A better professional fame.
- Less stress.
- Increased opportunities for advancement.

Failing to manage your time effectively can have some very unwanted results:

- Missed deadlines.
- Inefficient work productivity.
- Poor work quality.
- Higher stress levels.

Spending a little time learning about time-management techniques will have huge benefits now and throughout your career.

A. Answer the following questions:*(9 points)

1. Why does some people achieve more with their time than others?

2. What does good time management need?

3. What is time management?

B. Complete the following table of results of good and bad time management: (9 points)
